

Credit Weighting: 0.5Pre-/Co-Requisites: yesRestrictions:*INSTRUCTOR INFORMATION*Name: Adam SneydEmail: asneyd@uoguelph.caOffice Location: W21 virtual by appointmentGENERAL DETAILS

POLS*3790 provides students with a comprehensive introduction to the field of International Political Economy (IPE). This transdisciplinary field covers the global intersection of politics and economics in plain English. As such, POLS*3790 showcases concepts and theories that help us to better understand global political conflicts over economic ideas, policies and institutions. The course enables students to apply conceptual insights from IPE to the politics of current events in international relations, and also to their everyday lives. POLS*3790 commences with a brief introduction to several prominent IPE approaches and core concepts, and proceeds to review the political evolution and dynamics of the contemporary world economy. Students will then consider the politics of the global financial crisis and its aftermath. The class will subsequently be introduced to the politics of the world trading system and also to the politics of transnational or global production systems. Next, students will review several significant topics in the IPE literature, including the politics of economic regionalism, and the political economy of civil society. The final weeks of the course will feature political perspectives on the future of capitalism and on the political economy of everyday life. Upon successful completion of the course students will be able to comprehend and communicate key concepts and theories. Through the pursuit of independent, question-driven inquiry into the political economy of a particular commodity, students will have also learned a practical way to analyze political economy issues. Students will ultimately command broad knowledge of the political ideas, institutions and power relationships that shape the global economy.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

This course advances Political Science learning outcomes related to political inquiry and analysis, information literacy, global understanding, reading comprehension and integrative communication.

METHOD OF ASSESSMENT

Media Analysis Presentation - 10%

Review Essay - 15%

Term Paper - 35%

Take Home Final Assignment - 40%

REQUIRED READINGRobert O'Brien and Marc Williams (2020) Global Political Economy [Sixth Edition]. Palgrave Macmillan/Red Globe Press.Tom Burgis (2020) Kleptopia: How Dirty Money is Conquering the World. Harper Collins.